IRAN-US CYBERATTACK: WHAT IS THE RISK?

American military actions against Iran have led to fears of retaliation and speculation about what form it might take. One possible avenue of retaliation is a cyberattack. How vulnerable to a foreign cyberattack is the country in general and Georgia Tech in particular? What factors would influence Iran’s or any other adversary’s decision to pursue that option?

Mon Jan 27 2020
4:30 P.M. - 6:00 P.M.
DM Smith Bldg, rm 105
Open to the public, all welcome

Speakers

Prof. Milton L Mueller, School of Public Policy
Director the M.S. degree programs in Cybersecurity (Policy). Co-founder and director of the Internet Governance Project (IGP), a policy analysis center for global Internet governance.

Prof. Hans Klein, School of Public Policy
Conducts research on Internet governance and teaches courses on Internet & Public Policy.

Prof. Mark Zachary Taylor, School of Public Policy
Conducts research on innovation policy and teaches courses on US government, US foreign policy, and globalization.